From The Editors

Our yeorbook, o written occount of our school doys, is o combinotion of the efforts of mony people. Long tedious hours, ofter school meetings, and deodlines oll contributed to the pressures involved in the moking of this book. We hope our finished product fully occounts for our four yeors in high school.

As we deport, we look forword to the bettering of our environment by eliminoting mon-mode borriers between o common people. Let us strive to modify or odd to, rother thon to perpetuote or detroct from, the stondords of todoy's society.

We wish the best of luck ond losting good health to oll of our fellow clossmates.

Dedication

We have discovered in our school system a teacher who has enriched our lives by unselfish acts which only a concerned, dedicated friend would do. In the past, though these acts have gone unrecognized, they have not gone unnoticed.

We feel that this humble person should have such a recognition by our giving him the greatest honor a graduating class can bestow upon a teacher. Therefore we, the graduating class of 1971, dedicate our edition of the Lion's Roar to you . . .

MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL

Turmoil and tension seem to be so prevalent in the world today that one is tempted and indeed prone to moments of despair. We are beleagured on all sides by constantly changing mores and increasing clamor for social change. The demands come from all population segments but perhaps our youth are leaders in seeking different modes of life.

To recognize this turmoil ... to try and understand the cries of our young people ... to attempt to coordinate their ideas ... all of these items should be factors for every school administrator to consider. To eliminate these facets in an authoritarian way would be to ignore the yearnings of youth.

We do try and be aware of the complex desires to improve our society. We do try and work with understanding and with kindness. But we must temper our actions with the realization that society itself must have certain tenets so that an effective and orderly change may eventuate.

Certainly we would wish you to be familiar with aspects of our society crying for change; we would urge you to actively participate and work towards improvement in aspects which would be of assistance in eliminating turmoil and tension. And yet we ask that in doing all this, you work towards these goals in a constructive manner with a deep, inner feeling and respect for the rights and privileges of all involved in this transitory process.

1971 Graduates

Class Prophecy

As the year 1981 arrives, C. B. Productions has just come out with its latest smash hit, "Four Year Farce." The opening of this movie draws crowds consisting mainly of the graduates of the class of 1971 of West Boylston High School. They have come not only to celebrate the opening of their peer's newest contribution to the Hollywood scene, but also for their ten year reunion.

WBHS news sends its most prominent announcer, Ron Gagnon, to interview the celebrities as they arrive. Jean Riganati takes rapid dictation of Ron's commentary.

The crowd increases as the first limousine rolls up, with Donnie McCool behind the wheel. Doorman John Batt comes to assist wealthy producer Chris Bartlett and renowned director Bob Fidrych from their car. Cheers and screams come from the crowd as they approach the open doors. Janice Andonian and Marilyn Smith rush forward for autographs but are quickly pushed back by Policeman Mike Grady.

The second limousine screeches to a halt, with Mike Savage jumping from the car to open the door for Debby Alisch, who is escorted by Mayor Jim Moorefield. Along with them are the Mayor's personal lawyer Jim Connor and Gwen Sherman.

The police get a little more action, as from the back of the crowd the beginnings of a women's lib demonstration are heard. Martha Akstin, Pam Camarra, Nancy Hoaglund, and Theresa Cournoyer are dragged off to the police station for inciting a demonstration.

While this disturbance was occuring, the next limousine, driven by Dom Lopardo arrived. The basketball fans in the crowd are thrilled when Kenny Bohlin, the star of the L.A. Lakers emerges from the car with Paula S. Johnson. Doubling with them are Joel Yahanian, sharpshooting guard of the San Francisco Warriors, and Anne Lopardo. Cameramen Charlie Fagerquist and Kenny Boynton are quick to turn the cameras on these stars.

The crowd's attention is caught by the screeching of tires as four cars collide. Drivers Vic Carima, Gary Marcoux, Jack McCabe, and Bob Supernor jump from their cars to argue the fault of the collision. While the argument rages, the stars slowly begin to emerge from the debris, and Holly Johnson rides up on her horse to sort things out. The first to climb out are Bill Howard and Pat O'Brien, the leading actors in "Four Year Farce." Next we see Joe Christo, head of the studio, helping world famous model Mary Lee from one of the wrecks. The rest of the stars, Bill Crossman, Paula McKeogh, Paul Hennessey, and Jackie Holmes stumble out of the car and up to the entrance. Sneaking up to the rear entrance are famous golfer Paul Ciociolo and movie star Janet Granger, who don't want to be recognized. Thinking that they had avoided the crowds, they started for their seats, only to trip over Nancy Allen and Carolyn Cheever, who were still adding the finishing touches to the newly painted theater.

Outside another incident was occurring. Diane Psota, having forgotten her pills, became violently sick, causing Marcia Lamberto, known for her strong constitution, to faint at her side. Paula M. Johnson scurried to a telephone to call for an ambulance. Out of the crowd rushed Dr. Dale Powers with his two aides, Ellen Marchisio and Nancy Lind, ready to provide any needed assistance. The ambulance arrived and stretcher bearers, Roy Thorkildsen and Dave Minkle jumped out to carry Diane and Marcia to the waiting vehicle. Before the doors can even be closed, driver Dori Ciociolo sped toward the hospital. Returning from Europe in time for the performance are Dave Nickerson, the current ambassador to France, and Bonnie Herrmann with her famous rock group.

Finally everyone has arrived, and the doors to the lavish theater can now be closed. Ken Newell is seen running off to develop his pictures of the stars immediately before the opening curtain. Peter Kelley is ushered to his seat, along with his date Lesa Conforti, who still isn't ready.

The band, which includes Ron Cormier, Alan Fancy, and Dana Stiles, begins to play under the direction of Joe Lajeunesse. The usherettes, Evelyn Rogers and Marcia Phelps, seat the last of the guests and close the doors as the lights dim. On the back of the programs which they've handed out is a full page ad for Ellen Carey's famous motor lodge.

Three hours later the crowd leaves the theater, very much pleased with what they have seen. Most of the people are headed for Leon Dion's home and a grand celebration.

The first guests to arrive find Mary Reynolds and Diane Peron feverishly finishing the decorations. The next to arrive are those bringing the food: Sue Hager with the coffee and doughnuts (the coffee for those who will be needing it later), Sue Beshai and a quantity of cream, and Donnie Bonci with the "refreshments," after Danny Walsh had failed again, even though he had his I.D. As soon as everything had arrived. Bill Forsberg, the bartender, went diligently to work mixing drinks for the thirsty crowd. Steve Hohne and Rich Forleo were the first to step up to the bar, ordering drinks for all in the room.

Chuck Ela, Peter Dea, Tim Cavan, Steve Esonis, and Den Mulryan, better known as the tribe, arrived in high spirits. Now that all the guests were present, Valerie Pranckunas rolled out a gigantic cake. As everyone gathered around to admire the decorations, Bubbles Bonnie Spellman popped out of the top sending Holly Fidrych collapsing to the floor in hysterics.

In another part of the room are seen Sue Bonci, Kathy Lovell, and Donna Rondinone contending for the arm wrestling championship of the Class of "71." Close by are Cindy Bryant and Karyl Leslie trying to solve a difficult math problem. At the other end of the room are the poker players: David Carlson, Ken Karsok, Dennis Hayes and George Quist. Gary Parker is sulking in a corner after losing all his money.

Near the middle of the room the members of the tribe had decided to dance, and immediately Sue Jacobson, Bonnie Hall, Ellen Pratillo, Sherry Scott and Vicki Thornton paired up with them. Meanwhile, over at the punch bowl, Joe Shannon was frantically searching for his lost contact.

Megs Testamarta was found giving Debby French and Martha Leck, members of the Frizzies Club, instructions on how to train planaria. Next to them Colleen O'Neil and Carol Bryce were comparing hair lengths.

At this time the newspapers arrived with the earliest reviews of the movie. Everyone turned to the column written by Judi Wilson. She had given the film an excellent review and had highly praised the performances of the stars as well as those of the minor characters, Barbara Waite, Joy White, Wendy Sherwood and Chris Flagg.

After everyone had finished reading, Linda Chronchio appeared, modeling some of Karen Brustlin's latest fashions from her "Now Shop." At this time John Marrone and Steve Carville left to wash towels.

As this was taking place, a minor disturbance was developing out on the patio, as Cherie Hebb, seeking to prove her abilities as a witch, turned Wayne Gallupe into a mouse, Tony Goral into a rock, and Bob Clemente into a block of cement. Nearby, on the tennis courts, Bob Leonard and Cindy Bancroft were concentrating on a hard-fought match.

Returning to the house we find a crowd of fans gathered around Dale Edmunds. He is shaving off his beard for a television commercial, and is sure to receive several thousand dollars for it. Autograph seekers Laura Ward, Joy Smith, Jim Williams and Janice Magdis press forward.

Suddenly everyone is drawn to the pool by a scream. The first thing they see is Artie Gray doing his laps in the frigid water. In the water with him are Barbara Scher and Jane Rowell being rescued by lifeguard Rich Goodale. Others help to pull them out and they leave the party; their spirits dampened.

As the clock strikes four, the last of the guests leave. Paul Rotti remains cleaning up the leftovers, and Jim Wheeler sweeps up after him.

The ten year reunion is over. It has been judged a great success, and the class of 1971 eagerly awaits its next gathering already planned for 1996 at the palatial home of multimillionaire sheep owner, Bob Leonard.

Class Will

We, the class of 1971, the long-awaited superior race destined to rule the world, do hereby bequeath the following:

ARTICLE I

To the class of 1972, we just leave you . . . You're HOPELESS!

To the class of 1973 we leave our deepest sympathy concerning your task of following the class of 1972. (They're HOPELESS, you know!)

To the class of 1974 we leave a year's supply of speeding tickets to go with your conduct in the corridors.

ARTICLE II

The members of this departing class leave the following:

1. Martha "Beep-Beep" Akstin leaves her heavy foot to the work study boys who like to get away fast.
2. Janice "I'm Armenian" Andonian leaves her heritage to Gregory "I don't know what I am" Barsamian.
3. Kenny "Kink" Bohlin leaves his basketball to Steve "I can fit it in my mouth" Veshi.
4. Karen "Blue Jean" Brustlin graduates in a dress.
5. Pam Camarra leaves a challenge to anyone daring enough to break her record for the most absentee-isms.
6. Linda Chronchio chrunches out of the chrummy chrassroom.
7. Joe "I'm an artist" Cristo leaves to put Oakdale on the map.
8. Lesa "Flash" Conforti leaves a couple of hours later than the rest of us.
9. Bill "My boots are made for walking" Crossman leaves his skinny-mini shadow Lindsey behind.
10. Steve "I've never had such an attack in my life" Esonis staggers from the boy's room.
11. Rich "Itch" Forleo leaves a year's supply of belly-button lint to Mrs. "Life begins at fifty" Skillings.
12. Debbie "All-around athlete" French leaves her skill to Cindy "I'm an expert in my own field" Hayes.
13. Toni "William F. Buckley" Goral leaves us all asking "What'd he say?"

Junior Prom 1970

The future queen's residence.

Preparations

The Junior Prom of 1970 was held on May 8. The theme was "Romeo and Juliet," with music provided by George Adrian. The Decoration Committee, headed by Mary Reynolds, transformed the gym into an old English countryside with fountain, bridge, garden and balcony scenes.

To climax a wonderful evening, Carol Bryce, escorted by Robert Knox, was crowned Queen.

National Honor Society

Under the direction of Dr. Cecchini, the members of the National Honor Society, constituting Juniors and Seniors, are chosen on the basis Character, Scholarship, Leadership and Service. They can be found in the morning collecting absentee cards and in the afternoon collecting late slip papers. During the day, the members are tutoring students who desire help in any courses.

This year's officers are: President, Carolyn Cheever; Vice-President, Dale Powers; Secretary, Debra French; and Treasurer Cynthia Bancroft.

Football

This was the first year the West Boylston football team played a varsity schedule. Although they didn't win any games, the Lions proved themselves a worthy opponent against older and more experienced teams. With many key players returning next year, the team expects a fine season to come.

Football Cheerleaders

ICK! What d'you want my picture for?

This fall, a new group of cheerleaders, supervised by Miss Noyes, was instituted into the sports program. Nine girls were chosen to cheer for the first year Varsity football team. Selected were two freshmen, three sophomores, one junior and three seniors. Football required a new style of cheering and the girls worked hard to make up many cheers.

Why all the open mouths, girls?

Radio City or bust!!

Field Hockey

The 1970 Varsity Field Hockey team concluded its schedule with the first undefeated season in the school's history by compiling a record of 12 wins and 2 ties. Returning in this year's squad were 11 seniors from the 1969 Varsity team. The success this fall was due to the hustling offense which scored 24 goals in 14 games, and the strong defense that yielded only 4 goals the entire season. High scorer was Debbie French, with 11 goals. "Team play was our key to victory; we learned to work together," commented second year coach Miss Bonnie Goodale. She did a fine job in helping the girls to better their last year's record of 3 wins, 4 losses, and 5 ties.

The Telegram and Gazette recognized the winning season by covering the final game and giving the girls front page publicity. A television interview on WSMW followed. The addition of the first girls' trophy to the school's trophy case was another result of their undefeated season. A couple of parties, a dinner at the Paxton Inn, and a roller skating outing concluded the glorious season.

We, the 12 seniors, leave the remaining few, wishing them the best of luck in '71.

Soccer

The soccer team got off to a slow start. Coach Donohue, with the fine leadership by Co-Captains Rich Goodale, Dale Edmunds and Rick Evangelista were able to get the team rolling. By the end of the season the team proved to be much stronger. With many key players returning next year, the team can look forward to a fine season.

Cross Country

This year's Cross Country team had its strongest season in the school's history. With fine coaching by Mr. Justin McGrath, the team captured the S.W.C.L. crown, won the class C districts at the Wachusetts Invitational meet, and came in 5th in their class at the state meet. Congratulations to the team and their Coach for a fine job.

The 1970-71 Varsity Basketball team split its first four games, then went on to win the next 7 games in a row. After a one point loss to Oxford on a disputed play in the last second of the game, the team won their next six games which included two Clark Tournament games. Great shooting by Ken Bohlin and Joel Yahnian, and all around team effort gave W.B.H.S. a strong team.

Varsity Basketball

The 1970-71 Varsity girls' basketball team had a very good season. Their final record was 11 wins and only 4 defeats. Included in the eleven victories was a 41-34 decision over the otherwise undefeated Grafton team. Of the 12 members of the squad, 5 were Seniors, 4 were Juniors, and 3 were Sophomores. The girls were coached by Miss Bonnie Goodale and co-captained by Seniors Debbie French and Cindy Bancroft. Managers for the team were Andrea Barr, Nancy Lind and Nancy Hoaglund. The team averaged 48 points for 15 games and averaged only 33 points against them per game. Both the varsity and J.V. teams were encouraged to victory by their enthusiastic cheerleaders Dianne Bancroft and Lisa Naylor. With 7 members returning to the Varsity squad next year, we wish the best of luck to the girls in '72.
